THE ELDER SALVINI SURPRISED.

When the Temple of Diana Fell, He Became Very Much Excited.

Alexander Salvini tells an amusing story of his experience while acting as stage director for his father when the latter began his last American tour.

"I took entire charge of the stage direction for father," said he in a chat the other day, "and so relieved him of all anxiety on that score. I had the most difficulty in getting proper handling of the temple scene in 'Samson,' where Samson pulls the shrine of Diana down upon the heads of the people. I superintended this and got everything into working shape, but did not have father rehearse the falling in of the temple.

"I knew that the mechanical effect would take care of itself, so far as he was concerned, and merely placed a dummy there so as to arrange that none of the debris should fall so as to hit Samson. The effect of this tumbling in of the scenery was rather terrifying. It was the 'supers' whom I expected to give me the most trouble. Of course I wished them, representing the worshipers in the temple, to make a regular stampede, but I did not rehearse them for it.

"Well, when we played 'Samson' the first night I secured just the result I wanted. You ought to have seen those supers run off the stage! They thought the whole house was tumbling in on them. The way they went off that stage was a caution. At least they tried to go, but in their terror they tumbled all over one another in a heap. It produced a magnificent terror effect, and the audience probably thought it had all been rehearsed to perfection. But the supers knew better."

"How did they act the next night?"

"They didn't act at all. They were so terrified that they never came back. I expected that and had a new lot ready. The most astounded man of all was probably father. When the whole temple tumbled down upon him, he was perfectly bewildered, and as soon as the curtain was down he turned to me and energetically exclaimed, 'Sacramento! but do you want to kill me?' When cautious investigation showed him that no piece of scenery could fall on him, he accepted the situation philosophically."—Minneapolis Tribune.

The Trade of Burglary.

Burglary is a trade. It has its tricks, its tools and its ups and downs. It is a trade which is continually changing and improving. Methods of high class burglars that were in vogue 20 years ago are hardly known now. The thief's "jimmy" is out of date. Safe blowing has given way to safe cracking. Four or five men, with a few sticks of dynamite, rob a train nowadays as easily as 20 men armed to the teeth did it a dozen years ago. But in spite of the changes the motto of all low grade crooks is, "The way to steal is to steal."

They embrace every opportunity and steal whenever they can, often making a bungling job and getting nipped. After a few terms in the penitentiary, however, they are no longer low grade crooks, but have become educated professionals. The penitentiary is their school. There they are taught all the improvements of the "trade," and there many burglars' devices are invented by brainy but vicious men.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Tale of the Telephone.

The first telephone that was ever used was not electrical, nor was it a scientific instrument in any sense of the term. A little more than 50 years ago the employees of a large manufactory beguiled their leisure hours by kite flying. Kites large and small went up daily, and the strife was to see who could get the largest. The twine which held them was the thread spun and twisted by the ladies of the village.

One day to the tale of the largest kite was attached a kitten, sewed in a canvas bag, with a netting over the mouth to give it air. When the kite was at its greatest height—200 feet or more—the mewing could be distinctly heard by those holding the string. To the clearness of the atmosphere was attributed the hearing of the kitten's voice. This is the first account we remember of speaking along a line.—Sheffield Telegraph.

A Street Car Idyl.

They were riding up town together—pretty, pink cheeked Ethel and her red cheeked brother Ralph. In the young woman's lap lay a daintily bound volume with a bit of winter landscape etched upon the cover and the words "Winter Idyls" written across it.

"Say, Ethel," inquired Ralph, "what does i-d-y-l spell?"

"Idyl," replied Ethel absentmindedly, looking out of the car window. Ralph pondered.

"Are winter idles tramps, Ethel?" he went on. And the absentminded Ethel said she guessed so.—New York World.

How He Knew of It.

"I allus knowed woodcock time had cum," once said a marsh farmer, "when parson reads 'burning fiery furnace' in church lesson." He was much more a sportsman than a theologian, adds the relater of this story, but he meant the morning lesson (old style) for the nineteenth Sunday after Trinity, which fell about woodcock time.—Baily's Magazine.

A RESCUE THAT COST A LIFE.

He Saved the Young Lady, but Slipped and Was Dashed to Pieces.

I witnessed a most heroic incident many years ago. In 1865 two ladies and two gentlemen went over the Susquehanna river, opposite a small town in Pennsylvania, to a place called Peter Steps. To get to Peter Steps, which is on a bluff 150 feet high, you had to go by a back road. On top of the steps were two tall pine trees, eight feet apart, and to tie a rope to the trees and swing out over the bluff was the object of the party. After the gentlemen had been swinging some time one of the ladies wanted to swing. Annie, a beautiful girl, got in the swing, and after a short time she exclaimed: "Give me a good push. I want to go out so I can see the road below." We did so, when snap went the rope, and with a terrible scream Annie went crashing down on the rocks.

Almost scared to death we ran to the road below. We could not see Annie, but on looking up there she was. Her clothes had caught on a small scrub oak tree, and she was hanging between heaven and earth. By this time a crowd had gathered on the road below. Everybody was excited and was wondering how to get her from her perilous position. Just at this time Harry Saylor came running up the road. Seeing what was wrong, he went up the back road to the pine trees, and catching the rope that was used for the swing descended.

But, alas, the rope was too short. He did not wait for a longer one, but inch by inch he picked his way to the oak tree, and by the greatest exertion he managed to get her to the base of the tree. Once there even he dared not leave go of Annie or the tree. In the mean time a longer rope was procured, and tying it around Annie's waist she was landed safely above. Not so with Harry. When near the top, he slipped. Down he went, landing on the rocks below, a bruised and bleeding mass.

Gently and tenderly was he taken home, but his work on earth was done. On the stone that stands at the head of his grave are these words, "Sacred to the memory of a man who bravely gave his life for another."—Cor. New York Press.

A Glimpse of New England Life.

Apropos of character sketching are the following little bits of New England life seen on a train the other day. A couple of middle aged country women entered the car at a way station. One, dressed in seamworn black and carrying a bright yellow pumpkin took the inside seat, and her companion, settling herself on the extreme edge of the remaining half, arranged various bundles comfortably around her. Presently they entered into conversation. "Hev you seen Mis' Brown lately?" inquired she of the bundles. "Why, hevn't you heard?" returned the owner of the pumpkin.

Her voice sounded aggrieved. "Mis' Brown an I don't speak jest now," she went on. "It happened like this. 'Twas at the last sewing circle. We were sittin side by side out to supper, an when the biscuits come along I broke mine open an says I to her, 'Well, I must say I've eat better biscuits 'n these. Ain't they spotted?' Well, them were Mis' Brown's biscuit—an since then she and me ain't spoke." "You don't say," commented her companion. "Hadn't Christians oughter to be careful!"—Boston Advertiser.

Sailors Fear Bridal Couples.

A gentleman who has recently returned from Europe tells of an odd superstition in vogue among the more ignorant classes of seamen. They are of the opinion that the presence of a young couple on their bridal tour aboard ship portends a violent storm. The Canadian, an Inman steamship, had a young couple aboard, and sure enough the ship was caught in a hurricane. A number of the sailors were intent upon throwing them overboard, and only the courage of the captain, who opposed the mutineers with a revolver in each hand, saved the lives of those who were enjoying the first weeks of their honeymoon.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The Families of Patterson.

Tompkins with a "p" is not more significant than Patterson with two "t's" if tradition is to be trusted. According to the story that has come down from the 16th century, the Pattersons all spelled the name with one "t" before Queen Elizabeth set about marking those of her subjects who left the ancient Catholic faith and cast their lot with the Church of England. She insisted that all the Protestant Pattersons take to themselves a second "t," and since that time many have followed that mode of spelling the name.—New York Sun.

Judging From Appearances.

"That man must play in the band," said Bobbie.

"Why do you think so?" asked Wilton.

"Because he has handy legs," said Bobbie.—Harper's Bazar.

Invalids and Gambling.

Too many invalids are given to gambling for the purpose of amusement or pastime. Those who visit Florida, Colorado or California on account of climate, who leave home, friends and business on account of their health, who have anxious friends, or probably some relatives, who are hoping for all or some benefit from the change, cannot defeat the object of their trip in any more certain way than by a resort to gaming. No food, stimulant or rest can replace the lost nervous energy expended in this pastime. It tells on the cool and imperturbable as well as on the nervous and easily upset.

We have often seen pulmonary invalids coming west for climatic benefit who slept all morning with closed windows and tightly drawn blinds that, by the exclusion of sounds and light, they might make up during the day for the rest lost during the night—a night often in a close room with burning gas lamps, and, as is generally the case, so small that what fresh air it may contain would hardly suffice for one man. The deadly effects of these conditions, added to the nervous injury incident to gambling, are sufficient to wreck a previously well and hearty constitution. An invalid may be said to about destroy what little chance he may have by following gambling for pastime.—National Popular Review.

Infected Hotels.

A well known physician recently published an account of the experience of a patient at a so called health resort. Here is a part of the story:

"The patient in question was suffering only from overwork; his family history was clear, and there was no tuberculosis to be traced in his immediate kin or among his ancestors. He went to a health resort at a high altitude to recuperate. He boarded at a hotel in which numerous consumptives were coughing and expectorating; four months afterward he developed tuberculosis and now has a typical case of pulmonary phthisis. The unfortunate condition of these resorts is that there is, as a rule, no system of disinfection of the rooms, verandas, hallways, etc.

"The patients are allowed in most hotels to expectorate where they choose, without restriction. The result is that germs are scattered broadcast in the buildings and outside of the grounds. They become dry and are scattered in the air and inhaled by those exposed. Thus a health resort which in its beginning may have been very effective in combatting consumption becomes after a time a veritable center of infection."

A Conflict of Authority.

The late Lord Chief Justice Cockburn was an inveterate enemy to drafts, and on the opening day of the Surrey assize several years ago gave orders that all the windows should be closed. Upon arriving at the court the following morning he was surprised to find that this injunction had been neglected, and upon inquiring was informed that the high sheriff was the culprit. Addressing Mr. Evelyn, the high sheriff, he inquired the reason. "As the high sheriff, your lordship," replied Mr. Evelyn, "I consider it to be my duty to superintend the ventilation of this court, and I have therefore directed that the windows shall not be closed." "As lord chief justice I consider it to be my duty, sir," thundered Cockburn, "to fine you £500 for disobedience." And the money was paid too.—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Narrow Escape In Russia.

We had just left a station near the Irtish river. The road was near the precipitous river bank. Our horses started at a mad pace, and the driver could not control them. They galloped straight toward a precipice that a turn in the road brought just ahead of us. I thought we were lost. M. de Ujfalvy stood on the carriage steps, revolver in hand, ready to shoot the middle horse, hoping that if he fell dead the others would halt. Some Cossacks who saw the danger rushed to us shouting, "Don't fire." One of them grasped the bridle of the middle horse, and by an almost superhuman effort stopped him. It was time. We could look down into the abyss.—Cor. Manchester Times.

Bridget's Admiration For Education.

Bridget was a "hired girl" who was too amiable to believe in a scolding. A story of her should be remembered as an item on the credit side when the delinquencies of "help" are being counted over.

"Why, Bridget," exclaimed the housewife, "I can write my name in the dust here!"

"Deed, ma'am," replied Bridget with generous admiration, "that's more than I can do. Sure now, there's nothing loike education, after all, is there, ma'am?"—Youth's Companion.

Life's Cares and Pleasures.

The bride had just left the altar, and the dear old grandma was kissing the fresh cheek of her blushing young descendant. "And now, my dear," whispered she of the white hair and timeworn face, "remember that life's cares must be life's pleasures."—New York Times.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

THURSDAY, May 4th.

The Board met Thursday morning at the call of the chair, with all members present.

The bill of James A. Mead, road commissioner of Healdsburg road district, amounting to $291.95 was allowed.

The irregularity in the petitions of indigents heretofore existing, and the stringent regulations on the subject was the cause of a motion by Mr. Hall cancelling the entire list after the June payments. This has been a much abused charity, and the Board is determined to weed out all the undeserved. The motion, however, provides that applications in proper form will receive due consideration, so that no injustice will be done.

The bills of Drs. Boyce and Shearer, for expert testimony in the Livernash case, were increased to $50 apiece.

The clerk was instructed to prepare and make application to the State for the allowance provided for in the statutes, on account of moneys paid to outside indigents.

The bids for building a bridge across Russian river at Healdsburg were withdrawn, owing to a motion of Supervisor Hall rejecting them. The cause for this action is on account of insufficiency of funds and uncertainty of notice calling for same.

Bills were allowed as follows: Petaluma Imprint, $2.50; Sonoma Democrat, $23.75; John Brown, $24; J. F. Boyce, $50; M. M. Shearer, $50; H. S. Nichols, $2.08; I. D. Ingram, $10.

The Board adjourned until May 5th, for the purpose of inspecting the Ballou bridge and visiting the County Farm.

FRIDAY, May 5th.

The bills of Supervisor Joost as road commissioner of Fort Ross road district, amounting to $188, and of Ocean road district, amounting to $200, were approved and allowed.

The reports of Dr. R. P. Smith, County Physician, J. H. Weise, Jailer, M. M. Speegle, Superintendent of County Farm, R. Thompson, Justice of the Peace of Cloverdale township, and the statement of the Auditor and report of Treasurer, were examined and approved.

A petition was presented praying that Mrs. Nancy H. Bray be placed on the indigent list, which, on motion, was accepted and an order made allowing her $10 per month.

The Auditor was directed to apportion to the several road districts entitled, the road tax collected under the last tax levy remaining unapportioned.

The petition of residents of Russian River township for a change of boundary lines was set for hearing June 8th.

On motion of Supervisor Sales, $2,500 was transferred from the Swamp and Overflowed Land Fund to the Indigent Fund.

Recorder Hall was instructed to have iron doors hung at the front entrance of the Hall of Records. This is made necessary owing to the unprotected condition of the building.

The petition of the Central Street Railway Company for a franchise on the road running in front of the Rural Cemetery was set for hearing at 11 o'clock Saturday.

The following bills were allowed: H. L. Tripp, clothing $20; C. H. Burger & Son, meat to county farm, 53.28; C. H. Burger & Son, meat to hospital, $61.80; Mrs. A. Ford, wood, $3.80; H. L. Tripp, overalls, $7.50; Santa Rosa Pioneer Laundry, $8.45; Schmidli & Baker, repairing, $1.50; Hunt & Harris, hardware, $14.10; Fred. H. Suth, justice fees, $12; Rober & Collins, repairing, $8.50; Mrs. Nancy H. Bray, relief, $10; L. W. Juilliard, books, stationery, etc., $64.25; Geo. S. Brown, constable fees, $10; D. Meldrum, gardener, $50.

At 4:30 the Board adjourned until May 6th.

SATURDAY, May 6th.

The last day of the monthly session was uneventful. Only a few matters of importance were acted upon. The session opened with all members present, but before adjournment Chairman Mead was excused, and Supervisor Hall took the chair.

A committee consisting of Supervisors Sales, Hall and Mead were appointed to examine and report upon the condition of the Skaggs Springs road.

The order of Friday transferring $2,500 from the Swamp and Overflowed Land Fund to the Indigent Fund was annulled.

The following bills were passed: Cummings Bros., team, $8; Jacob Joost, salary, $71.60; James A. Mead, same, $52.80; J. W. Hall, same, $48.30; P. H. Thompson, same, $49.50; John Sales, same, $56.20.

The Board adjourned until the next regular meeting, Monday, June 5th.

Now is the Time to Commence Thinning Fruit.

"Such a thing as thinning fruit too much is absolutely unknown even where they have practiced it for years. Some people seem to have the idea that because we have had an abundance of rain this year, we will not need to thin so much as last year; but that is a mistake, and, if there is to be any variation, let it be in favor of more instead of less thinning, because then the fruit will be larger and bring a better price.

"Do not leave apricots hanging in clusters, because they cannot attain to saleable size, and they will not only ruin the limb on which they are allowed to grow, but will weaken the whole tree so that it will never again produce as large-sized fruit as before. Thin peaches until you can at least place your hand full width on the limb between the peaches; and, if the limb is a twig, take them all off but one or two at most. The yield will be the same, and the fruit will be first-class in every respect and command the top of the market.

"Pears will grow large enough in this section in clusters of three; the others should be removed while small with a sharp knife or shears. Apples must be thinned if you want saleable fruit. Up to a year ago it was considered unnecessary to thin prunes, but even they are receiving attention in this line by our most careful and successful growers of late, and with the best of results. They have learned that if any kind of a tree is overloaded it must be relieved or both crop and tree must permanently suffer.

"Commence thinning now and keep it up until ripening time, and you may preserve the good health of the trees and get a good price for your big crop of fruit."—Exchange.

The Penalty of Miserliness.

Of what value is it that our "gilded youths" have larger fortunes and consequently wider opportunities for social and intellectual enjoyment and advantage if they have not the culture of mind and heart which enables them to profit by their fortunes? Of what use has been the toiling and the moiling, the striving and delving, to amass riches for those who have not refinement of nature, good manners, good morals?

What happiness can it bring to the parents who in the evening of their days are compelled to see that while they have been paying close heed to their financial affairs, the sons and daughters for whose sakes they have stinted their own pleasures and stunted their own finest feelings have developed only into selfish, indolent, careless animals, to whom the possession of money means nothing better than big dinners and balls, magnificent dressing and lavish display?

Shall not such parents remember, when it is too late, that our largest interests are those of heart, mind and morals, that our smallest are those of material possessions?—Harper's Bazar.

Improving the Bee.

Among the many insects indispensable to man are the cochineal bug, the silkworm and the honey bee. To the latter Dr. Lamborn's attention has recently turned, doubtless with a view to bringing about the advent of the much talked of "coming bee." Although apiculture is the oldest economic pursuit, it is only within the last century that much scientific thought has been directed in the perfection of the stock. Much has been accomplished in the line of developing a gentler bee, but at the expense of other qualities. To evolve an ideal bee some points must be considered which have hitherto been overlooked. A combination of desirable points of various races and an elimination of objections must require much patience, time and money.—Entomological News.

The Public Ventilator.

The man was in the upper berth of a Pullman, and in the middle of the night he called up the porter.

"Here, porter," he said, "we want this car ventilated."

"Aw," growled the porter, "you newspaper men never give a man a rest."

"How did you know I was a newspaper man?" inquired the man, for he was indeed what the porter said.

"'Cause you're always wantin to ventilate sumthin, boss," and the porter opened the window above the man and gave him a cold.—Detroit Free Press.

She Must Have Deep Blood.

Colonel Yerger—Did you hear the Baron de Nogood has married a rich girl?

Judge Peerly—Isn't he blind in one eye and a pretty fast sort of a fellow about town?

"Yes, but as far as eyesight she is worse off than he is."

"How so?"

"Well, while he has lost one eye, she seems to have lost the use of both; otherwise she would never have married him."—Texas Siftings.

The Sonoma county editors who departed on the excursion for the World's Fair last Tuesday were D. W. Ravenscroft, formerly of the Petaluma Courier, George B. Bear of the Cloverdale Reveille and Louis and Frank Myer of the Healdsburg Tribune.

The proposition to bond the city of Santa Rosa for the purpose of owning and controlling its own water works was carried by an overwhelming majority last Monday. The people of that town by their action in this matter have proved themselves to be wide-awake and progressive citizens.

Owing to the warm weather trout fishing has been excellent in the streams in this valley and surrounding mountains the past week and some fine strings have been caught. The fish are very gamy and one has to have good stout tackle to land an ordinary sized fish. The trout vary in size from five to fourteen inches.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Harrison of the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, have made many improvements since they became the owners of the property a few years ago. The grounds surrounding this popular resort, with their beautiful shade trees, green lawns, fountains and flowers are the handsomest in the valley. Surrounding the hotel are 130 varieties of choice roses.

C. O. Schuler, the Petaluma cigar manufacturer, was in town last Thursday on business connected with his enterprise. Mr. Schuler employs 6 experienced white cigars makers in his establishment the year round. His five and ten cent cigars are the best in the market. Smokers, when they want a good cigar, should ask for Schuler's. They are on sale in several hotels and saloons in Sonoma.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will commence to serve ice-cream to the people of town and valley to-day. They have rented the building on Napa street next door to Hotz's store, where they will be pleased to wait on all comers The ladies should be encouraged as the money spent with them will be used toward paying off the debt incurred in building the new church, which will be dedicated next month.

Baker's new Photo Gallery on Napa street, Sonoma, is now in full blast. Call in and see the pictures.

Death of a Popular Young Man.

George S. Tate, a young man well and favorably known to every resident of Sonoma Valley, died at his mother's home in this place at half-past two o'clock last Wednesday morning of consumption.

The dreaded disease first made its appearance in the summer of 1888, when George was employed in working on the iron bridge which crosses Sonoma Creek on the road between this place and El Verano. At that time he contracted a slight cold, which being neglected by him attackted his lungs and finally developed into consumption. The deceased was an exemplary and companionable young man, and a genial disposition coupled with generous impulses made him many friends. He had been ailing for many months but he bore his sufferings without a murmur and when the end came he passed away in a peaceful sleep that knows no waking. George Tate was born in Sonoma in 1866 and had lived in the town ever since. His funeral took place yesterday and was remarkable for the number of relatives who attended to perform the last sad rites to the dead, he being connected with many of the oldest and largest families in Sonoma Valley.

Town Improvements.

Work on the new Methodist Church is being pushed forward rapidly this week. The 80-foot steeple is completed and the carpenters are at work shingling the roof of the structure. One of the features of the edifice is that it is being built by the pastor of the church, the Rev. H. C. Mohn, who besides being able to preach an excellent sermon, has proved himself to be a first-class mechanic. This church, when finished, will be one of the handsomest buildings in Sonoma.

Excavations for the swimming baths, which are to be one of the attractions of Sonoma next summer, are still in progress. The water for bathing will be supplied by Schocken's artesian well.

A. McCartney of San Francisco, the owner of the Bank Exchange building, has decided to add another story to the structure and carpenters are now at work on the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Poppe are erecting a new windmill and tank on their private residence grounds on Napa street.

Jas. Ruffner is putting up an addition in the rear of his store on Napa street.

Sonoma Wines and the World's Fair.

The efforts of the World's Fair authorities to discourage the sale of Sonoma and other California wines in Chicago have been very successful. Refusal to put the coast vintages on the wine cards of the restaurants drew from the vineyardists a vigorous protest, which resulted in getting the wines listed. But the price put on them was absolutely prohibitory, and in many cases higher than that charged for imported stock. All of which goes to show that as Sonoma county is pre-eminently a wine-producing section how very foolish it would have been indeed had she contributed the $15,000 or $20,000 that was expected of her toward the World's Fair business. The Supervisors did a very sensible thing when they refused the appropriation.

Rain and Grain.

Farmers and dairymen are crying out for more rain. The dry weather of the past few weeks has had a tendency to stop the growth of grain and feed in this valley, and if rain does not come inside of a week there will be short crops in hay and cereals in some portions of the valley. The grain on the reclaimed lands of Senator Jones, Tubbs, Meacham, Rose and others, however, is looking as fine as any crop that we have seen in a long time. Immense crops of hay, wheat and barley are assured in the reclaimed tule lands bordering on Sonoma and Petaluma creeks whether there is another drop of rain this season or not.

Donahue Railway Officials.

The Donahue railway, under the new management, as under the old, are determined to do all in their power to please the patrons of the road. With that object in view Superintendent Whiting and Passenger Agent Ryan made a tour over the line the past week for the purpose of meeting the people of the various towns through which it passes and discussing matters pertaining to the mutual interests of the road and its patrons. The gentlemen were very cordially received wherever they went.

M. Walsh, the well-known saloon man and politician of Petaluma, was thrown from a buggy, near that city, last Monday evening and knocked insensible. Besides other injuries his right ear was completely severed from his head. Search was made for the missing ear but it could not be found.

GLEN ELLEN.

A. Simoni was in San Francisco Monday and Tuesday on business.

The road men have been busy the past week making repairs near the Pleasance ranch.

Editor Granice was in town one day this week looking after delinquent subscribers.

The Southern Pacific Company are now running two passenger and two freight trains daily.

Wilson Bros. of Sonoma are painting and papering the dwelling of Mrs. J. W. Harper on Clementina street.

The picnic of the Berlins last Sunday was an orderly and enjoyable affair. About three hundred people attended.

Jailor J. H. Weise was in town last Tuesday in search of witnesses in the civil suit of Pieratt vs. Griswold.

Mr. E. Ferguson, while engaged in breaking a colt, was badly injured about the face by a kick from the animal. The injury, although painful, is not serious.

"Bachelor girls" are very much the fashion now. There is a great difference between a bachelor girl and an old maid. An old maid is a woman who missed matrimoney and had no other resource to which to turn. A bachelor girl is an unmarried woman who earns her living in a merry, independent way and feels that she will never be left whether she marries or not. There are not many old maids now.

David McDannald, living on Mud Creek, below Milton, Or., was bothered with snakes; they would swallow eggs whole and they would swallow the young chickens. So great was the annoyance he could not raise any young fowls. He finally studied up a plan to rid his premises of the snakes. He bought a big lot of porcelain eggs and laid them around so the snakes could get them. They swallowed them the same as the genuine ones, but they could not digest them and death was the inevitable result.

THE CITY EDITOR'S RUSTIC SONG.

I would flee from the city's rule and law—from its fashions and forms cut loose—and go where the strawberry grows on its straw and the gooseberry grows on its goose; where the catnip tree is climbed by the cat as she clutches for her prey, the guileless and unsuspected rat, on the rattan bush at play. I will watch at ease the saffron cow and the cow let in their glee as they leap in joy from bough to bough, on top of a cowslip tree and list while the partridge drums in the wood and the dog devours the dogwood plumb in the primitive solitude. O let me drink from the mossgrown pump that was hewn from a pumpkin tree! Eat mush and drink milk from a rural stump, from form and fashion free—new garnered mush from the mushroom vine and milk from the milkweed sweet—with luscious pine apples from the pine! Such food as the gods might eat! And then to the whitewashed dairy I'll turn, where the dairymaid hastening hires her ruddy and goldred butter to churn from milk of her butterflies, and I'll rise at morn with the earliest bird, to the fragrant farmyard pass and watch while the farmer turns his herd of grasshoppers out to grass.

Emerald, beautiful soft mignonette, lime and watercress greens take the lead, followed by heliotrope, verbena, Chicago, and petunia reds.

THE FLYING YEARS.

As a dream when night is done,
As a shadow flees the sun,
As a ship whose white sails skim
Over the horizon dim,
As a life complete of days
Vanisheth from mortal ways,
As a hope that pales to fear—
Is the dying of the year.

As the first gold shaft of light
Shivers through the wreck of night,
As the thrill and stir that bring
Promise of the budding spring,
As new thoughts of life that rise
Mirrored in a sick man's eyes,
As strange joy to hearts forlorn—
So another year is born.

Glad or sad, a dwindling span
Is the little life of man,
Love and hope and work and tears
Fly before the flying years.
Yet shall trembling hearts grow bold—
All the story is not told—
For around us as a sea
Spreads God's great eternity.
—Christian Burke.

A Honeymoon Incident.

A well known local carpenter tells a story that is intended as a good joke on his wife. When they were married, they rented apartments in a block, the rear of which overlooked one of the rivers, and among the wife's earliest culinary efforts was a batch of bread. The young husband sampled his wife's contribution to the world's stock of the "staff of life," and arising from the table playfully remarked:

"My dear, cast your bread upon the waters."

The wife took offense at the injunction, and as her husband left the house she flung the remaining loaf out of the window into the river. It struck a passing boat, crashing through the bottom and sinking in the water's murky depths. The next she knew the boatman, dripping wet, made a tour of the block, bent on discovering who dumped the hod of brick into his craft.—Binghamton Leader.

A Writer of Stories.

Just a few years ago a sharp nosed, bright eyed young man used to haunt the secondhand book stores of this city. He would buy and eagerly devour all the cheap novels, blood and thunder stories, etc., exposed for sale. One day he astonished an old bookseller whom he found reading an interesting story by informing him that he was the author of it. One day he disappeared, and later it was reported that he was writing for the weekly story papers in New York city.

The other day came the news that he was at the head of a novel publishing company and wrote about 100 continued stories himself yearly for his weekly story papers and library publications. He is said to have an income of about $4,000 a year. He has concealed his right name, it is declared, and writes under any number of noms de plume.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

One Thing Bishop Brooks Did.

On one occasion Bishop Brooks received a letter from a man in New York saying, "Will you please send me a list of all the publications in your diocese?" On receiving it the bishop did not even smile at the absurdity of the request or seemed annoyed that a man should trouble him upon such a simple matter. He accepted it as something to fulfill.

"Do you think you can find what this man wants?" said he to his secretary.

"I guess so," came the reply, and the secretary, who knew the noble hearted bishop so well, spent half the night completing the task.—Boston Globe.

Mamma Caught Napping.

"Am I thin or fat, mamma?"

She had already been asking too many questions, but her mother answered her once more.

"Why dear," she said, "you are not very fat, but you are fat enough for a little girl who is growing."

This reply was certainly diplomatic, but it did not apparently satisfy the child, for a few seconds later she came out with this terrible poser:

"Say, mamma, are there any little girls who are not growing?"—Boston Herald.

Kleptomania, which is so often used nowadays as a cloak for respectable stealing, is a form of monomania. Dr. Pritchard mentions a typical case of a madman who would never eat his food unless he had previously stolen it.

The temple of Ypsambul in Nubia is cut from a solid rock, and its entrance is guarded by four statues, each 65 feet high, 25 feet across the shoulders, the face 7 feet long, the ears over 3 feet.

The total annual loss from insects in the United States is estimated by the best entomological authorities at about $389,000,000.

The Greeks sometimes buried their dead in the ground, but more generally cremated them, in imitation of the Romans.

The average weight of the Chinese brain is said to be heavier than the average weight of the brain of any other race.

Both Were Nervous.

At a duel the combatants discharged their pistols without effect, whereupon one of the seconds interfered and proposed that the duelists should shake hands. To this the other second objected as unnecessary.

"Their hands," said he, "have been shaking like that" noun.—Exchange.

How It Feels to Lead a Procession.

"If you want to experience a novel sensation," said a gentleman who sports a colonel's uniform as member of a governor's staff whenever said governor turns out on parade, "just get on horseback and take part in some great procession like those which marked the Columbian festivities.

"It is the most curious feeling that you ever experienced, I will wager a hat. It beats hashheesh or opium smoking all to pieces. It is unlike any other thing that you ever saw or heard or felt.

"At first you are all right, and you hear the bands and see the great furrows of humanity on either side of the way as distinctly as you ever saw anything in your life. But after awhile things begin to grow blurred to your senses. The music dies away and there is nothing but a dull roar in your ears, while the crowd becomes merely a dull and indistinct mass without form or meaning in your eyes.

"But now you begin to see single figures—men hanging from the eaves of high buildings, boys perched on chimneys or signboards or in some hazardous place. You watch one of them with fascinated eyes, expecting every minute to see him fall and be dashed to pieces on the pavement. You are constantly filled with an overwhelming feeling that you are to be witness to some dreadful accident, but for the life of you you cannot turn your eyes away from it. After awhile you cease to be a human being at all and become a mere automaton. You are not controlled by human emotions, but by the magnetism of the crowd. It is some such sort of hypnotic state, I apprehend, which men get into during a battle and which makes them so unlike themselves."—New York Herald.

The Spider Hawk.

The miners of Colorado who have built cabins on the mountain sides know what a pest the small brown wood spider proves to be. They thrown their webs over our best clothes, cooking utensils, in every corner, where you can get them in your eyes and mouth. Not only that, but they will drop into the frying pan, water bucket or upon the table where you are eating. Nature has furnished a remedy and a friend when she gave the spider hawk. The name is given by miners to a small, steel blue wasp almost three-fourths of an inch in length. He can easily be recognized by the quick, nervous strokes of his wings. They build a nest up among the rafters of your cabin of wood pulp or furze from the outer coating of old dead trees. Then they are ready for business.

Every few minutes you can see your hawk climb up the rafters with a spider, sometimes carrying one four or five times his own weight. Sometimes they get a spider so heavy that they will fall many times before they succeed in reaching their nest. They never give up, but keep on trying until they succeed. When the spider is safely placed in the nest the female hawk deposits her egg in the dead body. The hawks live only in pairs, as far as my observation goes. They become rather tame and seem to be obliged to you for building the spider trap for their benefit.—Great Divide.

Grant Allen on Literary Rewards.

Grant Allen's experience and advice may be of service to other aspirants who may fondly imagine that the successful literary man treads a primrose highway to fame and fortune. "If anybody thinks," he says, "that my upward path from obscurity to a very modest modicum of popularity and success was a smooth and easy one he is immensely mistaken. I had a ten years' hard struggle for bread, into the details of which I don't care to enter. It left me broken in health and spirit, with all the vitality and vivacity crushed out of me. I suppose the object of this series of papers is to warn off ingenuous and aspiring youth from the hardest worked and worst paid of the professions. If so I would say earnestly to the ingenuous and aspiring: 'Drain for brain, in no market can you sell your abilities to such poor advantage. Don't take to literature if you've capital enough to buy a good broom and energy enough to annex a vacant crossing.'"

"August Flower"

Mrs. Lorenzo F. Sleeper is very well known to the citizens of Appleton, Me., and neighborhood. He says: "Eight years ago I was taken sick, and suffered as no one but a dyspeptic can. I then began taking August Flower. At that time I was a great sufferer. Everything I ate distressed me so that I had to throw it up. Then in a few moments that horrid distress would come on and I would have to eat and suffer again. I took a little of your medicine, and felt much better, and after taking a little more August Flower my Dyspepsia disappeared, and since that time I have never had the first sign of it. I can eat anything without the least fear of distress. I wish all that are afflicted with that terrible disease or the troubles caused by it would try August Flower, as I am satisfied there is no medicine equal to it."

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pain in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would act violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and roll it around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed otherwise her body would cramp and so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. MCGILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 351 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1892: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $5 worth.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a Curb of long standing. Then I had a four year old colt badly sweenied; tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your liniment, and in a few weeks he was well, and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at College Grove, Or. S. E. PAXTON.
